

WHERE SHOULD I GO?

TOP 2 CAFÉS IN PRAGUE

Due to coronavirus a lot of businesses like cafés, restaurants, etc. will face financial problems. A lot of these companies may not survive and they will be forced to shut their businesses.

That's why I'm here with this article. We need to support these businesses and give them hope they can handle the situation. Take this article as a subjective recommendation for cafés that you can visit in Prague (not only during the corona season but also after).

1) ETAPA

Etapa is relatively newly opened café located in Karlín. This new bistro quickly became popular among all coffee-, sweets- and brunch-lovers. Beside their delicious coffee, you can get e.g. fantastic pear crumble or gluten-free cake that you can see in the photo. The interior is full of houseplants that make it even cosier.

Etapa is one of the places you'll be happily getting back to over and over again.

Photos are from Etapa's Instagram @etapa_pgfoodies

2) CAFEFIN

Cafefin is located in Vinohrady and it is known for their great brunch menu. The most interesting thing about Cafefin is that it's not an ordinary café. That is because it's tuned in Vietnamese/Asian style. The interior is full of Vietnamese elements that are supposed to induce the authenticity of this facility. No need to speak about their brilliant coffee and sweets. They have a wide range of savoury food, for example the spring rolls you see in the photo, Bún bò Nam Bộ, bibimbab and many more.

Photos are from Cafefin's Instagram @cafefin.coffee

